

FRENCH 204

Fourth Semester French

Do you enjoy talking about music, films, and social issues? Do you want to do that in French? Do you hope to study abroad or visit a French-speaking country? If you already have several semesters of background in French, enroll in French 204 and expand your communication skills and your knowledge of the French-speaking world!

Offered every semester!

1

Getting Conversation Started

2

Debates on Globalization Today

3

Perspectives on Immigration

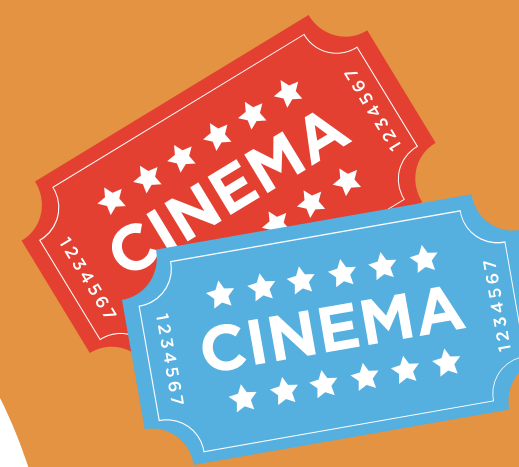

4

Linguistic identity in the French-Speaking World

No written exams

In French 204, you will expand your communication skills, building on grammar and vocabulary learned in past French classes. This course emphasizes listening, speaking, and writing in French through engaging with authentic texts from the French-speaking world. These include short and feature-length films, websites, articles, comic books, and other media. You will have many opportunities to apply your knowledge in project-based learning, such as creating an original video in French and engaging in debates on the course themes.

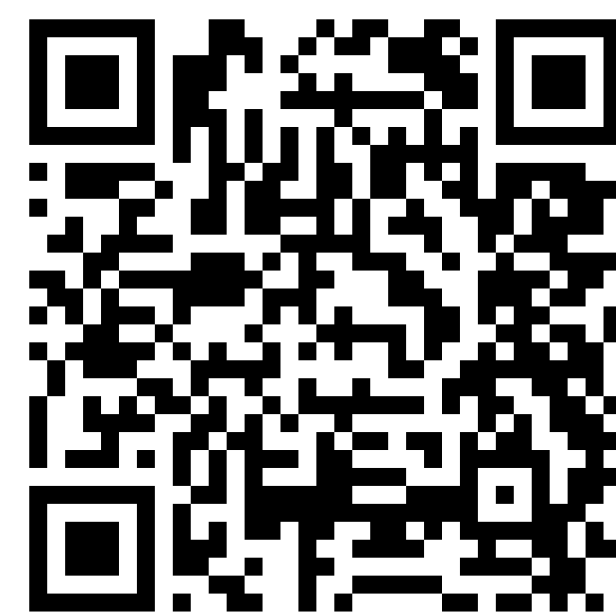

affordable textbook

Questions?
Contact:

Course Chair: Dr. Heather Allen,
hwallen@wisc.edu

Undergraduate Coordinator: Mandi Schoville, maschoville@wisc.edu

WISCONSIN
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON